It was one of the last times in his political career that Allen would take the microphone. Soon, his political career would be at an end, but the 93-year-old Texas Republican who lost a U.S. Senate race to Democrat Doug Jones in December was in a good mood as he walked onto the stage. "I'll be 93 next year, and I've been working on my speech for 10 years," Allen joked. "It's based on what I did in 1954. I did it at the state Democratic convention. I wasn't doing it on purpose." Allen's speech -- titled "The Things We Did" -- was a reflection of his state, "the most democratic of them all." Read MoreQ: Find position of a specific input in the DOM I have a select input (included in a form) which has an autocomplete feature. I have a separate function which, when you select an item in the autocomplete, will do some other things with that specific item. What I need to know is, if that item exists as a text input somewhere in the DOM, where is it? Is there a way to find that input and attach some kind of id to it? I'm trying to do this without having the DOM changed, so I don't want to have to change the id of the input. Thanks in advance. A: Just post the value of the input that you want to find back to the server, and have the server respond with a query to get that input, if it exists. If the DOM is changed (by user interaction, for example), then you might want to also post a timestamp with the response and a1d647c40b

Laetitia was convicted on 19 counts, including two counts of rape. A former doctor who was convicted of sexually assaulting a baby in a car and raping a young child has been sentenced to 30 years in prison. Laetitia Van den Asselart, 34, was convicted on 19 counts, including two counts of rape, last year at Bournemouth Crown Court. The judge, Mr Justice Linden, said the sentence was "proportionate" and "proper in all respects". Laetitia Van den Asselart, 34, was convicted on 19 counts, including two counts of rape, last year at Bournemouth Crown Court. Van den Asselart abused the three children, then aged between three and 12, in a car when they were going to see her brother at the hospital. She also raped a 16-year-old girl at a guesthouse in Bournemouth. Laetitia Van den Asselart, 34, was found guilty of 18 offences of child sexual abuse and two counts of rape after a six week trial. A clinical psychologist, Mr Justice Linden, told the court the abuse was carried out over a period of 12 years. He said the abuse started when Van den Asselart and the children's mother were in a relationship. The judge said the way the abuse was carried out by the mother was "shameful" and "extremely distressing" for her victims. On the second occasion in September 2014 the judge said Van den Asselart
