Know Your Drinking Rights The New York City Council has, after an 18-year lobbying campaign, finally implemented mandatory alcohol education. The law, which took effect on April 21, requires that children between the ages of 16 and 19 and high school students in the ninth through 12th grades take an alcohol education class or face one year in prison. The law also requires alcohol education classes for adults, with a caveat: no one under age 21 can be in the same class as someone under 21. The battle over this law was fought by everyone from bartenders to the New York State Restaurant Association. Education groups insisted that drinking was a privilege, not a right. And there was a lot of pressure brought to bear by the restaurant industry, since we often take time out of the work day to enjoy a drink. We're glad to see the New York State Legislature agreed with us in part. While the restaurant industry shouldn't have to pay for training sessions, bartenders and managers do need to understand the rules and regulations that accompany alcohol service, be it off-premise or on premise. After 18 years of waiting, the rules of the road on alcohol are finally clear. Know Your Drinking Rights the law now requires that children between the ages of 16 and 19 and high school students in the ninth through 12th grades take an alcohol education class or face one year in prison. Let's take a quick look at some of the drinking laws. Anyone under 21 may not: Purchase any alcoholic beverage or legally obtain any alcoholic beverage for the purpose of consuming that alcoholic beverage in the presence of a child under 21 years of age. Wear or display a visible or concealed alcoholic beverage identification or permit on the person or in a vehicle in a place where alcoholic beverages are available for purchase or consumption, or while driving a vehicle. Consume an alcoholic beverage anywhere except in a vehicle. Consume an alcoholic beverage with the consumption of food in a place or under circumstances where it is prohibited for a child under 21 years of age to consume alcohol. Distribute alcoholic beverages to a minor. Distribute alcoholic beverages to a person under the influence of alcohol or a narcotic drug. Possess or have in his or her possession a beverage container on any premises where alcoholic beverages are served or consumed. Possess or have in his or her possession an alcoholic beverage container while in a vehicle or in

Tag: Samsung Galaxy NX We have seen various rumours and leaks regarding the prototype of the Samsung Galaxy NX, but we have never seen the device in-hand. A new report now reveals that the Samsung Galaxy NX will indeed be released as a new mirrorless camera, and it is reportedly aimed at a crowd that is bigger than the S-series. The Samsung Galaxy NX currently has no confirmed release date, but it is rumoured to go on sale as early as next month. The information came to light through a Reddit user who posted a photograph, which is of a new Samsung Galaxy NX unit that was built for the company's UK business. The handset is said to have a 1/2.3" Exmor R CMOS sensor, and it was attached to a new 20.8mm F1.7 lens. The device is almost identical to the one that was leaked earlier this year, with its design being criticised for not having a true mirrorless body. If the report is true, the Samsung Galaxy NX will be the first camera designed by the company, and it will offer much better quality than its predecessors. A mirrorless camera isn't exactly a new concept, but in the past most manufacturers have used a separate lens for each shooting situation, hence making a full-fledged mirrorless camera has been a challenge. The Samsung Galaxy S3, Samsung Galaxy S4 and the HTC One all currently offer 1/2.3" sensors and a 20mm lens, and we have seen some smartphones that have even tried to merge the feature. But this is the first time we will see a 21mm lens with a dedicated mirrorless camera. The Samsung Galaxy NX isn't Samsung's first mirrorless camera, and the company is also rumoured to have another project called the 'Samsung NX', which is a model for the Micro Four-Thirds (MFT) sensor format. The report states that the company is now planning on bringing two new mirrorless models, as part of a strategy to "diversify its mobile ecosystem". It isn't clear if the device will be able to take micro four-thirds pictures, so we won't know until we get our hands on a prototype. It is possible though that Samsung is planning on releasing both the NX and the new NX model with an MFT sensor. We are expecting to see the new
